ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 24.—2:30 p.m.—(By Atlantic Cable.) While the city is quiet, there is still great tension in St. Petersburg, but from Moscow comes news that disorders have begun there, and the full here may be only the precursor of another storm.Machine gun batteries were today placed at several points for emergency. The terror of the people has been somewhat relieved, but the dread of the next few days continues.
The foreign consulates are under a feeling alarm. They are expressing confidence that the government will be able to handle the situation, and that there is nothing so warranting apprehension for the lives or safety of their fellow-countrymen. The authorities insist that the danger of the situation is exaggerated, continuing to scout the idea of a revolution and maintaining the ability of the government to meet all emergencies.Traffic between St. Petersburg and Moscow and Warsaw is uninterrupted. The Northwest Express arrived on schedule time.Although the crowds on the Nevsky Prospect continued to increase during the afternoon, say as they did yesterday, there have been no collisions up to this hour.The wildest rumors are in circulation. A mob is reported to be marching on Tsarskoye Selo to see the Emperor, as the multitude marched to Versailles to ask King Louis XVI of France for bread in 1779, but the story is utterly without foundation.In certain quarters where the woe of Russia is a daily reminder of the door of Great Britain, the feeling against the British has become intense, it being charged that the British are furnishing money to bring about a revolution.LESS MARTIAL ASPECT.
St. Petersburg wears a less martial aspect today. Everywhere troops have been drawn into court yards.
Only pickets are left outside, and small squads of Cossacks are patrolling the streets. The stores along the principal thoroughfares are mostly closed and barricaded.The correspondent of the Associated Press drove up the Nevsky Prospekt with the help of daylight realized that the damage done to the store fronts was more considerable than was apparent last night.Enormous crowds of strikers and many sightseers, encouraged by the mild weather, were prowling along the sidewalks this morning, and the street cars were again in operation. All has been quiet up to this hour.General Prince Vasichkov, commander of the Guard, has not yet announced the stringent rules usually accompanying a state of siege, such as forbidding persons to leave their homes after 10 p.m. or to wear spectacles and the extinction of all lights in private quarters after that hour.The authorities evidently are still confident that they have the situation well in hand.There is no confirmation of the report that the Emperor, the Empress and their children are going to Copenhagen, or on the other hand that the Emperor has decided to appoint a mixed committee of officials, employers and workmen to consider the strikers' demands, notably the question of eight-hour work per day, and to make an investigation of the shooting of the strikers.FATHER GONON'S LETTER.
It is learned that Father Gonon sent a letter to the Social Democrats in the following terms:
"They have fired upon and massacred us, but we are not vanquished, and the day of our triumph is nigh. Do not spend our strength in taking up arms and resorting to violence. Content yourself with destroying the portraits of him who is no longer worthy to be our emperor."This pacifist admonition irritated the Social Democrats and does not meet with a response from the workmen, who, apparently, are thirsting for vengeance on the autocrat and to make an investigation of the shooting of the strikers.For the moment, the men here are without a plan of action and are seemingly content to realize that without arms it is folly to resist the troops. If the strikers are paralyzed, there is general fear that the revolutionists and terrorists, who are continuing to the streets, will begin a reign of bomb-throwing and that the political exiles' association, known as the "Illegal Red Cross," will make large contributions.There is no truth in the report that strikers 30,000 strong are marching upon Kolpin, twenty miles from St.
Petersburg, for the purpose of seizing the small arms factory there.OFFICIAL ACCOUNT.
An official account of yesterday's events is as follows:
"During Monday, there were no collisions between the rioters and the troops. The detachments of troops no need to use their arms, as the crowds dispersed when the troops appeared. In the course of the day, an ambulance was attacked, and a man died. The rioters were repulsed at Dvor Market, but it was reported that the electric stations joined the strike in the evening. Then some groups, taking advantage of the darkness, broke into the windows of the shops, but order was everywhere quickly restored.

Fixed but Set Aside.(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) PARIS, Jan. 25.—(Exclusive of the Czerwinski, the organ of the Russian revolutionists, says:

"It is impossible to exaggerate the gravity of the crisis. It is no longer a question of strikes.
The struggle now is against autocracy and knout-compelling servitude. It marks an epoch in the dawning of the liberty of Russia. Such an event must tear the country asunder."
"Money is being subscribed in Belgium, France and Germany, and it is certain to reach the revolutionary committees, because our underground system of communication is perfect, escaping the strictest censorship of the Russian authorities.""The date for the death of the him live a while. What has happened on the borders of the of artillery, awaiting their arrival.

They were ordered to retire, but making some use of force, they continued to advance until they had come within a pointblank range of the troops. Then a succession of volleys stopped them, and threw them into disorder. They fled precipitately, the ground strewn with dead. Later they tried to form up anew, but the infantry, quickly following up its advantage, pursued them, pouring in successive volleys, which drove them in panic into Kolpin.Nor was this enough of warning, punishment or vengeance to satisfy the Russian commander. He ordered his soldiers to surround the trembling, ill-armed workmen and to pour volley after volley into them.How many were killed and wounded will never be known, but when the slaughter ended the commander of the troops reported to his superiors here:

GANG PLOWS STARTING, BUNCH GRASS COMING.

People Going Back to Abandoned Farmhouses—Wonderful Awakening in the Desert Since the Early Rains Crept Over the Mountains.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]
ELIZABETH LAKE, Jan. 24.—Thrice blessed rain clouds are creeping over the mountains again. The joy of the farmer folk is almost pathetic. No pen can write of the fear of another dry year in these valleys. Whittened skeletons of the perished stock; the memory of the moaning herds falling in their weakness; the abandoned ranches with the desert wind howling through their desolated rooms, howling round the deserted, tottering barns, the bleak mud flats where the sun once sparkled over a multitude of beautiful lakes; these tell a little of the story.

To see these scenes of heartrending loneliness reviving to courage and life in a week's time is a wonderful, a striking thing. The last rain that wet Los Angeles came across the mountains and bathed these valleys with a magic thrilling elixir.

From the little desert towns, up through the cañons, out across the cactus plains, the whole vast valley is stirring.

GANG PLOWS AGAIN.
Over the picturesque mesas of the Leonis Valley are crawling specks which resolve themselves into great eight-horse teams, dragging the gang plows through the grateful damp earth.

The progress of the funny little Elizabeth Lake stage is like a career of triumph. Although equipped with a dignified time table and date schedule, the Elizabeth Lake stage is a one-horse sulky pretty much tied up with baling wire and drawn by an aged white nag which cannot be observed to move with the naked eye.

It starts up at the head of the beautiful lake country which is said to look like the lakes of Killarney—but dried up for the past five years. Where were the lakes, are now dead mud flats marked with cattle paths, criss-crossed and criss-crossed again.

The tradition is that the lake chain is inhabited by the spirit of a beautiful girl named Elizabeth who was drowned there and whose sweet white presence hangs above when the water fowl moon and cry at night.

LIZZIE'S PROUGHT.
Judging from the recent condition of her lake home, Lizzie must think it is a long time between drinks.

As the stage pokes on past the farms, the farmers come with radiant faces to greet the driver.

One of them tells that the lakes are filling up again. And sure enough, as the stage crawls over the hilly road out from the cliff side, the middle lake lies below, its mud begotten with a tiny lake that gleams crystal.

Down past the Heffner place, the forges are going, blacksmiths pounding the rusted plows; dragging out the farm machinery; indignant horses being rounded up from a long vacation and hitched into the big gang teams; down past the corner store where the store keeper, wearied with "crying" farmer folk who could not pay, is bustling about, ordering a new stock starting the accounts all over again.

The pretty romance of old Miguel Leonis, the Basque sheep herder, was laid, one comes into the cattle country where the frightened steers are coming down from the mountains; the water is gurgling high through the torn way; a protest was drawn up accordingly.

The Bond Committee of the board is nearly ready to report. The probability is that they will recommend an even higher bond issue than the $250,000 asked for by the retiring board.

The proposed increase in the expenditure results from an independent investigation made by the new board into school conditions. It is desired by the new board to increase the old board's estimate by the amount necessary to purchase land adjoining various city schools for playgrounds. The new board has also determined to have all the new schoolhouses built of brick instead of wood.

JAIL BIRDS ON DIRECTORATE.

Startling Plight of the Trust Company's Officers.

One in Prison, Another Fled, Third a Suicide.

Further Details of Operations of "Bob" Condee.

With one of its number in jail, another dead by his own hand, and a third anxiously sought by his creditors, the original directorate of the Southern California Trust Company of Los Angeles is sadly disrupted.

As a jailbird directorate it is about the limit. Only one of the directors could be found yesterday. He is H. R. Budd. He is separated from the outside world by a heavy iron door at the City Jail.

Another director is "Bob" Condee, the "poultry man," whose departure is mourned by numerous persons in an amount variously estimated at from $5000 to $20,000.

Several additional creditors of Condee came to light yesterday. Condee did not.

The dead member of the directorate is H. W. Caldwell, who ended his life a few weeks ago by taking morphine.

J. A. Wood and J. C. Sleet are the remaining members of the directorate.

Condee's name appears on the doors of the company's office suite at 412 Braly building, as attorney. No one seems to know Sleet.

Condee was president of the trust company, which was incorporated a few months ago with a capital stock of $75,000, of which $250 is shown on the county records as having been subscribed.

Director Budd lays all his troubles to Condee. He says Condee deprived him of work at an unfortunate moment. Budd was forced then, he says, to trust to his wife to make a living.

He obtained a suit of clothing from a local firm in a manner that caused the court to send him to jail for one hundred days.

Director and Attorney Wood acted as counsel for Condee a short time ago when the latter effected a settlement of his tangled business relations with H. W. Kruckeberg, the printer.

Wood also acted in legal matters for the McKeon Bay Land Company of San Diego, which sold a large number of lots in that city recently at $40 each.

The land company and the trust company occupy the same offices, although the name of the former does not appear on the doors.

OFFICERS ARE "OUT."

Persons who inquired at the offices yesterday for an officer of the trust company were referred by a young woman stenographer who was in charge to M. Osgoodby, agent of the Mission Bay Land Company.

As in the case of Wood, Mr. Osgoodby was also absent. At his home, No. 417 Park View avenue, last night, however, Mr. Osgoodby said he had nothing to do with the affairs of the trust company.

For the land company, Mr. Osgoodby said its business is being closed out. It sold many lots at San Diego at $40 each and is engaged now, he said, in forwarding deeds to purchasers as fast as they pay their installments.

Osgoodby said he had not seen Condee for six weeks.

There were numerous callers at the offices of the trust company yesterday. Its principal business now is being done at the office. The postal authorities started an investigation of its methods some time ago, as a result of which it is said to have stopped using the United States mails. Local representatives of two big commercial agencies also inquired as to the business of the company and the personnel of its directorate.

When some of the anxious inquirers

RICH LEDGE OF ORE.

Los Angeles Company Makes Valuable Strides in Mountains of San Bernardino County.

Recent developments on the property of the Giant Ledge Copper and Copper Company in San Bernardino county less than 20 miles in an air line from the city, have brought to light a ledge of copper, gold and silver seventy-five feet high with ore running about $20 to the ton. The strike was made on the Hard Cash claim, near the north end of the property. This is one of the best yet found on the company's land.

The Giant Ledge Company is a Los Angeles corporation, with offices in the Frost building. L. M. Gregory is president and general manager. The mines are in the New York mountains, three miles from the Santa Fe's Manvel branch, and five miles from the Salt Lake road. The company has completed over 400 feet of development work, and has much ore in sight.

There are some fine outcroppings on the ledge. In one place they are seventy-two feet high and in another is one twenty feet in height. The first is estimated to contain 25,000 tons of ore assaying from $10 to $75 per ton.

CHIHUAHUA SMELTER.
It is thought that the American Smelting and Refining Company, the smelter trust, will establish a large plant at the city of Chihuahua, Mex., to handle the enormous mineral wealth that will be opened in the States of Chihuahua, Sonora and Sinaloa, and brought to the city by the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad.

Application for the necessary concessions from the government has been made by Attorney Manuel Prieto of Chihuahua, who is believed to represent the smelter trust. F. W. Rogers, a mining expert in the employ of the trust, is one of the men who are working on the project.

CANANEA GROWING.
The Cananea Consolidated Copper Company has greatly increased its force. About 500 more names are on the rolls than there were three months ago. As a result there has been a building boom at Cananea. More than 600 dwelling houses have sprung up within a short time to accommodate the growing population.

The temperature in St. Paul yesterday was 14 deg. below zero, the warmest spot in the Northwest.

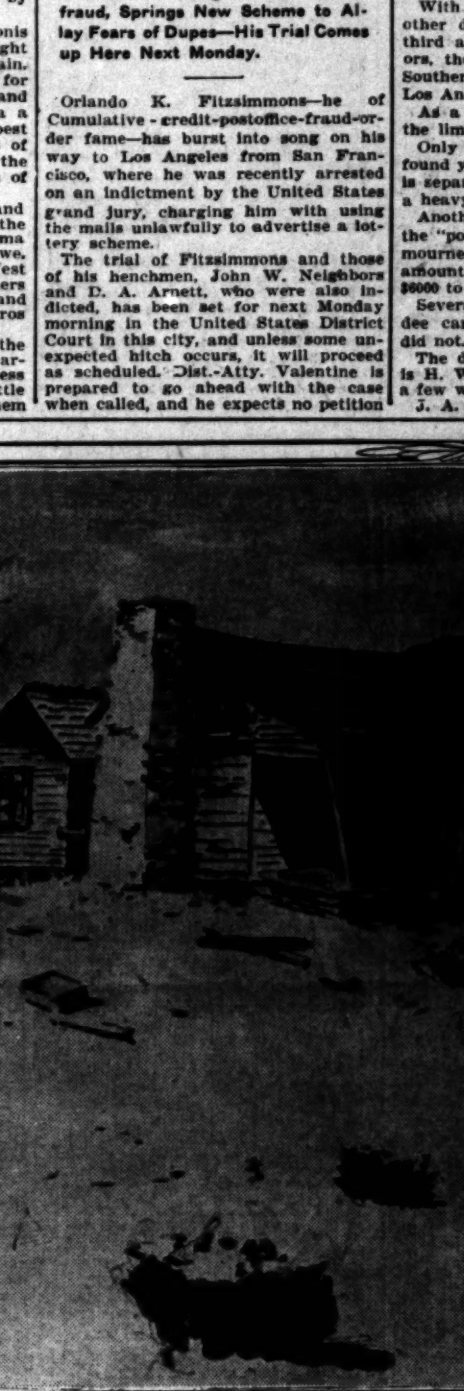

SCHOOL BOARD.

Protest Against Teachers' Salary Bill. New Schoolhouses to be of Brick.

A protest will be to the State Legislature as a result of an informal meeting of the Board of Education yesterday.

A bill is before the Legislature providing that all of the State school appropriation and 50 per cent. of the county appropriation shall go to pay teachers' salaries. The measure of opinion at yesterday's meeting was that such a bill would tie the hands of the school boards in an inhabitable way; a protest was drawn up accordingly.

cactus plains, the whole vast valley is stirring. The picture of the abandoned house is a stark contrast to the current state of the region, which is now beginning to show signs of life and growth.

growing thinner and weaker; had to wear the pathetic appealing eyes and hear their desolate loving—"that maimed sound."

This rain has attuned the stockmen to the highest degree of jubilation. The bunch grass is coming up. The vaqueros are rounding up their herds ready to drive them across the valley to the Palmdale hills where the green feed is sprouting as though no such thing as a dry year was ever heard of.

Around Palmdale people are preparing to come back to the abandoned farms. Drummers, coming through the country, are casting inquiring eyes at the empty stores with boarded-up windows and gaping weather-beaten cracks.

The lonely, deserted farmhouses which surround Palmdale like a circle of desolation, will soon be inhabited again; the rains have come. The dead orchards which stand row after row of withered trees, tottering and falling in every wind, will soon be replanted.

Drummers, coming through the country, are casting inquiring eyes at the empty stores with boarded-up windows and gaping weather-beaten cracks.

Already this is an object for speculation. The rain clouds are drifting over the mountains; the valley has paid its penance in full; the rains have come again.
